When Mrs. Higgins saw Dowd she marly fainted, for Dowd was her first husband, whom she had for many years thought to be dead.

He had left her nearly twenty years ago in England, and come to this country to make his fortune as a miner. Thirteen years ago Mrs. Dowd received word that her husband was dead, and she then married Higgins, who brought her to this country.

Dowd entered the house of Higgins just as the latter was going to work. Mrs. Higgins screamed, for she thought she was looking at a ghost. When Higgins saw the condition of affairs he left Dowd to explain matters to his wife. He says he will make the best of the matter, and does not attach any blame to the wife.

The crowd left Morris Park yesterday carrying with them a vague suspicion that the card had been padded. Certainly, the wholesale scratching would justify them in this belief. It is to be hoped that such was not the case. Nothing hurts a track more than to pad out the entries, and it is difficult to believe that the Morris Park people would stoop to such means to attract crowds to their course. The presence of crackajacks in several of the races no doubt frightened many owners out, and this, in all probability, caused the wholesale withdrawal. withdrawal.

On Thursday at Morris Park Mr. Eas-ton will sell the horses in training owned by Messrs. Boyle & Littlefeld, and a number of two-year-olds from the stable of G. Walbaum.

WALLWITZ TO HANG JUNE 26.

Permission to Exhume His Victim's Body Denied by Justice Abbett. TRENTON, N. J., June 5 .- Justice Abbett to-day rendered a decision denying the application of counsel, made in behalf of Condemned Murderer Wallwitz for an order to exhume the body of Deputy Keeper Lippincott for the purpose of obtaining the bullets.

Wallwitz, while a convict in the State Prison, according to the evidence on the trial, killed Keeper Lippincott while trying to escape from the prison. The defense was that Wallwitz did not fire the fatal bullet.

Justice Abbett decided that the Court

fense was that wanted that the Court fatal bullet.

Justice Abbett decided that the Court had no power to grant such an order, and advised counsel to make a similar application to the Court of Pardons. In this way, Justice Abbett said, the matter would be brought before Gov. Werts, who in turn would lay the case before Gov. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, in which State Keeper Lippincott's body is buried.

Justice Abbett then sentenced Wallwitz to be hanged on June 26.
